A MESSAGE TO OUR SHAREHOLDERS JUNE 30, 2006

Dear Fellow Wintergreen Shareholder,

At Wintergreen, we think of the Fund's portfolio as a string of pearls with each pearl representing our participation in a business or underlying asset with an attractive valuation and compelling prospects. We have the investment flexibility to view the entire world as our oyster, which has offered us the opportunity to find some of our best investment opportunities in locations outside of the United States. Because we focus on long-term results, at some moments in time we have and will continue to be out of step with investment fashions. Often the unpopular, complicated or neglected investments yield the dynamics we are looking to find. Markets seldom grant these types of investments full value in the short run. This is very much like the barnacles on the oyster shell obscuring the true investment weight of the pearl hiding within the shell.

Markets in general have experienced substantial movements both up and down during the first six months of this year. We have tried to maintain our buying discipline when prices for our favorite securities move up, and to be buyers when prices decline, giving us the possibility to add or initiate positions at bargain prices. As with all investing, with the benefit of hindsight our vision is a clear 20-20, while our day to day efforts are sometimes a bit less precise. We have continued on our path of accumulating special situations which we believe are undervalued in relation to their intrinsic value. Our goal is to enhance the net asset value of the Fund. Our efforts are focused on identifying individual investments that our analysis concludes have the characteristics of downside asset protection and meaningful upside potential over time.

I would like to address a couple of the securities that are particularly important to our portfolio and are good examples of our long-term value hunt for gorgeous pearls hiding in unglamorous oyster shells. One such security is Consolidated Tomoka Land Company ("CTO"). CTO's assets are substantial land holdings located primarily in Volusia County, Florida which is home to Daytona Beach. The company has meaningful income properties and parcels of land that are in the direct path of growth for the city of Daytona. As sentiment towards real estate assets had become negative, Consolidated Tomoka's stock price declined significantly, which gave Wintergreen the opportunity to buy a meaningful stake in the company at prices which we hope will become very attractive over time. A review of real estate prices in the Daytona area over the last few years shows that there have been substantial increases, and yet in comparison to many other areas on the east coast of Florida, Daytona remains much more affordable. This is significant in light of the fact that Florida is one of the states with the fastest growing populations. We are encouraged by investments for which the passage of time appears to increase their value and therefore to be our friend, and CTO certainly seems to be one of those investments. Consolidated Tomoka has a debt free balance sheet and has a strong management team that has done a good job to enhance the value of their properties. We look forward to continuing our work with the company to encourage long-term maximization of shareholder value.

Hong Kong Shanghai Bank ("HSBC") is an example of an international investment that typifies our investment approach. This financial institution began in Hong Kong in 1865 and shortly thereafter started operations in Shanghai. The original purpose of the bank was to facilitate trade, and 140 years later they have maintained focus on their original business plan. Along the way, HSBC has become the third largest bank in the world; with approximately one third of its operations in North America, thirty percent in Europe, and the balance in the rest of the world, especially in emerging markets. HSBC's motto is 'The World's Local Bank' and their operations are conservative in nature with management focused on the long-term prize. The HSBC annual report has no glossy photographs, rather it emphasizes extensive disclosure of their activities. Incentive is placed on generating long-term superior results, not the typical short-term performance which so dominates the behavior of many financial enterprises. They have been disciplined and usually opportunistic acquirers, buying assets that exist under a cloud and are therefore available at attractive prices. The inherent conservatism of their approach encourages us to sleep well at night knowing generally that there are profitable transactions occurring globally twenty four hours a day. Wintergreen Fund can own a fractional interest in this enterprise and participate in global economic activity with management who have shown high integrity and motivation. Over time, HSBC has grown at attractive rates so we feel as if we are buying a bond with a growing coupon. The valuation of HSBC also seems reasonable as at present the dividend yield approximates a money market rate of return and we effectively get the potential future growth of the company for free.

We are optimistic about the quality and quantity of opportunities currently available in global markets. Although we cannot and will not try to guess short-term movements in prices, we are encouraged by the results of our ongoing work to uncover compelling special situations. Our orientation is to seek long-term returns that will reward our shareholders. Most substantial wealth has been achieved by ownership of all or parts of businesses held for many years. At Wintergreen, that is our investment objective and we are enthusiastic about the Fund's portfolio holdings. We feel that we are on a global treasure hunt and the more rocks we look under the more potential gems we will find. It is a process of sifting through volumes of information to identify those leads that might result in a potentially lucrative investment.

We very much appreciate your investment in the Wintergreen Fund. For many of us at Wintergreen Advisers, a significant portion of our personal net worth is invested side by side with yours in Wintergreen Fund. This fact is not lost on us as we seek to find compelling investment opportunities globally. We are not trying to mimic an index and will hold cash when we believe it is in our shareholders best interests. We intend to continue being flexible in terms of the types of assets we will invest in and will continue to search globally for investment opportunities.

Thank you for joining us on this investment journey!

NOTES TO FINANCIAL STATEMENTS JUNE 30, 2006

Note 1. Organization

Wintergreen Fund, Inc. (the "Fund") is registered as an open-end, diversified management investment company under the Investment Company Act of 1940, as amended. The Fund was organized as a Maryland corporation on May 5, 2005 and commenced operations on October 17, 2005. The Fund is authorized to issue 1 billion shares of beneficial interest with $0.001 per share par value. The Fund seeks capital appreciation.

Note 2. Summary of Significant Accounting Policies

The following summarizes the significant accounting policies of the Fund:

Security Valuation — Securities traded or dealt on one or more securities exchange (whether domestic or foreign including the National Association of Securities Dealers' Automated Quotation System ("NASDAQ")) and not subject to restrictions against resale shall be valued: (i) at the last quoted sale price or, in the absence of a sale, (ii) at the mean of the last bid and asked price. If a security is traded or dealt on more than one exchange, or on one or more exchanges and in the over-the-counter market, quotations from the market in which the security is primarily traded shall be used.

The Fund values securities at fair value pursuant to procedures adopted by the Fund's Board of Trustees (the "Board") if (1) market quotations are insufficient or not readily available; or (2) the Adviser (as defined in Note 3) believes that prices or values do not represent the fair value of the investment; or (3) securities are determined to be illiquid in accordance with the Liquidity Procedures adopted by the Fund's Board of Directors.

Fair valuation is based on subjective factors and as a result, the fair value price of an asset may differ from the asset's market price and may not be the price at which the asset may be sold. Fair valuation could result in a different net asset value ("NAV") than a NAV determined by using market quotes. There were no fair valued securities at June 30, 2006.

Security Transactions, Investment Income and Realized Gain Loss — Investment transactions are accounted for on trade date. Dividend income is recorded on the ex-dividend date. Dividend income is recorded net of unrecoverable withholding tax. Interest income is recorded on the accrual basis. Identified cost of investments sold is used to determine the gain and loss for both financial statement and federal income tax purposes.

Foreign Currencies — Foreign currency amounts are translated into U.S. dollars based on the mean of the current bid and asked price by major banking institutions and currency dealers. The portion of the results of operations arising from changes in the exchange rates and the portion due to fluctuations arising from changes in the market prices are not isolated. Such fluctuations are included with net realized and unrealized gain or loss on investments.

Foreign Forward Contracts — The Fund may enter into transactions to purchase or sell foreign currencies to protect the U.S. dollar value of the underlying portfolio securities against the effect of possible adverse movements in foreign exchange rates. Foreign currency transactions involve certain costs and risks. The Fund incurs foreign exchange expenses in converting assets from one currency to another. Forward contracts involve a risk of loss if the investment adviser is inaccurate in its prediction of currency movements. The projection of short-term currency market movements is extremely difficult and the successful execution of a short-term hedging strategy is highly uncertain. The precise matching of forward contract amounts and the value of the securities involved is generally not possible. Accordingly, it may be necessary for the Fund to purchase additional foreign currency if the market value of the security is less than the amount of the foreign currency the Fund is obligated to deliver under the forward contract and the decision is made to sell the security and make delivery of the foreign currency. The use of forward contracts as a hedging technique does not eliminate fluctuations in the prices of the underlying securities the Fund owns or intends to acquire, but it does fix a rate of exchange in advance. Although forward contracts can reduce the risk of loss due to a decline in the value of the hedged currencies, they also limit any potential gain that might result from an increase in the value of the currencies. There is also the risk that the other party to the transaction may fail to deliver currency when due which may result in a loss to the Fund. Realized gain or loss includes net gain or loss on transactions that have terminated by settlement or by the Fund entering into offsetting commitments.

Distributions to Shareholders — Distributions to shareholders of net investment income are intended to be made twice each year and net capital gains, if any, are declared and paid at least annually. The amount of distribution will vary, and there is no guarantee the Fund will pay either income dividends or a capital gain distribution. Distributions are based on amounts calculated in accordance with applicable Federal income tax regulations, which may differ from generally accepted accounting principles. These differences are due primarily to differing treatments of income and gain on various investment securities held by the Fund, timing differences and differing characterizations of distributions made by the Fund. The Fund records dividends and distributions on its books on the ex-dividend date.

Federal Taxes — The Fund intends to qualify each year as a regulated investment company under Subchapter M of the Internal Revenue Code and distribute all its taxable income. Income and gain distributions are determined in accordance with federal income tax regulations, which may differ from generally accepted accounting principles. Therefore, no Federal income or excise tax provision is required.

Redemption Fee — The Fund charges a redemption fee of 2.00% of NAV of shares redeemed if the shares are owned less than 60 days. The fee is charged for the benefit of the remaining shareholders and is paid to the Fund to help offset future transaction costs. To calculate redemption fees, the Fund uses the first-in, first-out method to determine the holding period. Under this method, the date of redemption is compared with the earliest purchase date of the shares held in the account. The fee is accounted for as paid-in capital.

Repurchase Agreements — The Fund may invest in repurchase agreements. The Fund, through its custodian, receives delivery of the underlying collateral, whose market value always exceeds or equals the repurchase price plus expected transaction costs. In the case of a tri-party agreement, the collateral is held by an agent bank. The Funds' investment adviser is responsible for determining the value of the underlying collateral. In the event of default, the Fund may have difficulties with the disposition of any such securities held as collateral.

Use of Estimates — These financial statements are prepared in accordance with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America, which require management to make estimates and assumptions that may affect the reported amounts of assets and liabilities and the disclosures of contingent assets and liabilities at the date of the financial statements, and the reported amounts of revenues and expenses during the period. Actual amounts could differ from those estimates.

Contractual Obligations — The Fund enters into contracts in the normal course of business that contain a variety of indemnifications. The Fund's maximum exposure under these arrangements is unknown. However, the Fund has not had any prior claims or losses pursuant to these contracts. Management has reviewed the Fund's existing contracts and expects the risk of loss to be remote.

New Accounting Pronouncements — In June 2006, the Financial Accounting Standards Board issued Financial Interpretation No. 48, "Accounting for Uncertainty in Income Taxes" (the "Interpretation"), which is effective for fiscal years beginning after December 15, 2006 and is to be applied to all open tax years as of the effective date. This Interpretation prescribes a minimum threshold for financial statement recognition of the benefit of a tax position taken or expected to be taken in a tax return, and requires certain expanded disclosures. Management has recently begun to evaluate the application of the Interpretation to the Fund, and has not at this time determined the impact, if any, resulting from the adoption of this Interpretation on the Fund's financial statements.

Note 11. Shareholder Expenses Example

As a shareholder of the Fund, you incur two types of costs: (1) transaction costs, including redemption fees; and (2) ongoing costs, including management fees and other Fund expenses. This example is intended to help you understand your ongoing costs (in dollars) of investing in the Fund and to compare these costs with the ongoing costs of investing in other mutual funds.

The following example is based on $1,000 invested at the beginning of the period and held for the entire period from January 1, 2006 through June 30, 2006.

Actual Expenses — The first line of the table below provides information about actual account values and actual expenses. You may use the information in this line, together with the amount you invested, to estimate the expenses that you paid over the period. Simply divide your account value by $1,000 (for example, an $8,600 account value divided by $1,000 = 8.6), then multiply the result by the number in the first line under the heading entitled "Expenses Paid During Period" to estimate the expenses you paid on your account during the period.

Hypothetical Example for Comparison Purposes — The second line of the table below provides information about hypothetical account values and hypothetical expenses based on the Fund's actual expense ratio and an assumed rate of return of 5% per year before expenses, which is not the Fund's actual return. The hypothetical account values and expenses may not be used to estimate the actual ending account balance or expenses you paid for the period. You may use this information to compare the ongoing cost of investing in the Fund and other funds. To do so, compare this 5% hypothetical example with the 5% hypothetical examples that appear in the shareholder reports of other funds.

NOTES TO FINANCIAL STATEMENTS JUNE 30, 2006

Please note that expenses shown in the table are meant to highlight your ongoing costs only and do not reflect any transactional costs, such as sales charges (loads), redemption fees, or exchange fees. Therefore, the second line of the table is useful in comparing ongoing costs only, and will not help you determine the relative total costs of owning different funds. In addition, if these transaction costs were included, your costs would have been higher.

	Beginning	Ending	Expenses
	Account Value	Account Value	Paid During
	January 1, 2006	June 30, 2006	Period*
Actual Return	$1,000.00	$1,045.11	$9.89
Hypothetical Return	$1,000.00	$1,015.12	$9.74

^{*} As expressed below, expenses are equal to the Fund's annualized expense ratio of 1.95%, multiplied by the average account value over the period, multiplied by the number of days in most recent fiscal half-year/365 to reflect the half-year period.

		Fund's Annualized		Average Account		Number of Days in Most
Expenses	=	Expense Ratio	Χ	Value Over the Period	Χ	Recent Fiscal Half Year
